Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow :

Diagnostic evaluation is conducted along with formative evaluation during the instructional process. It is carried out based on the data obtained from formative evaluation. Diagnostic evaluation is specially conducted to identify and remove the learning difficulties of learner if it is observed and found during the formative evaluation. For example, if a learner couldn't understand certain concepts in a particular subject and continuously performs poorly in that subject, we conduct diagnostic test to know the causes of the difficulties and accordingly provide them remedial treatment to overcome the difficulties. The key word in diagnostic evaluation is identifying of 'learning difficulties'. Diagnostic evaluation not only solves learning difficulties of learners but also identifies and provides remedies for personal, physical and psychological problems. This can be exemplified as sometime you may find that few students in your class are very nervous to come forward and say something, showing fear towards the friends and teachers because of certain psycho-social disorders and physical disorders.

Read the following paragraph and answer the questions :

Americans produce and consume more material goods in the world in an institutional environment that allows them to do so. The price marketing system permits individuals to make free choices to sell goods and services to the highest bidder and buy whatever they wish at a price they are willing to pay. Their goal is to maximise profits which has been called a rational or utilisation approach. Riggs linked this rational approach to administration to the marketisation of public service as a direct relationship between the two. An administrator sells his services as per conditions laid down by law to the government. The marketisation of public services is limited by the conditions laid down, like tenure, loyalty, contract, or security. The administrative bureau is considered as a kind of 'market' in which the participation must achieve specified goals to the maximum. However, the indirect influence on the administration is the market master who controls the market from becoming a battle ground in case of misrepresentation. American institutions are shaped by rules and regulations that provide services, such as roads and postal services.
